INDIA'S DEDICATED HOMELAND SECURITY EVENT IN 2010

The Countdown to Global Security India 2010 has begun!

Global Security India 2010 - International Exhibition and Conference on Homeland Security will take place at the Ashok Hotel and Convention Centre, New Delhi, India, from the 28th to 30th April, 2010.

With less than a month to go, this could be your last opportunity to book exhibit space in order to participate in this prestigious 3 day event dedicated to National Security and Civil Protection focussing on the Indian Sub-Continent. Why not capitalise on the huge potential that India currently offers the International Homeland Security Industry.

One of the major challenges facing India is the serious concerns over internal and external terrorism. As a result the 2010 Federal and State Homeland Security budgets have increased by 35% to US$28.34 billion! The projections for the next 5 years also expect substantial increases thus underscoring the fact that Homeland Security is now the number one priority in India.

With the forthcoming 2010 Commonwealth Games due to be held in New Delhi from the 3-14th October, India has embarked on the largest security procurement programme anywhere in the world.

Reported figures state that over Rs100 crores (US$20 million) is being spent on purchasing the following equipment which includes:

- Port, airport and border security systems
- X-ray scanners
- Hand-held metal detectors
- Communication systems

In addition the Government is also spending US$30 Billion on updating both its Military and Security Forces to meet the internal and external challenges.

Global Security India 2010 will therefore provide a unique platform for the International Homeland Security Industry to promote their products and services to the world's fastest growing HLS marketplace.
