

A|D|S is the trade organisation advancing UK AeroSpace, Defence and Security industries which, together with its regional partners, represents over 2,600 companies. It assists member companies in developing new business globally, facilitates innovation and competitiveness and provides regulatory services in technical standards and accreditation.

The Security pillar of A|D|S, is comprised of UK companies who typically supply Products and Services to the Police and Public Security agencies worldwide.

Public Security agencies and organisations comprise Police Forces, Customs, Immigration, border guards, prisons, airport and seaport authorities, special military units, counterterrorist units, fire and rescue, emergency medical response and also include utility and transport companies, as well as covering any situation where public safety and security may be at risk.

We provide a wide range of information, contacts, market leads, services and activities to assist Member companies in:

- Promoting and marketing their Products and Services in the UK and worldwide
- Bringing business opportunities to their attention, and creating a forum for sharing market information
- Coordinating, liaising with and representing the Industry to Government agencies

We work closely with the Home Office, the UK Association of Chief of Police Officers (ACPO) and many other Government departments with a concern for these activities within the Public Security market, including the Home Office Scientific Development Branch (HOSDB), the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO), UK Trade and Investment (UKTI), and the UK Ministry of Defence (MoD).
